

Kennedy, Maltinsky exchange vows

Dr. Kimberly A. Kennedy and Paul E. Maltinsky of Beaver Creek exchanged vows at 1:30 p.m., May 9, 2009 at St. Augustine Catholic Church in Minster.

The bride is the daughter of Dennis and Laurie Kennedy of Plainview, N.Y. The bridegroom is the son of Gregory and Joann Maltinsky of Minster.

Rev. Rick Neiberding performed the wedding mass. Providing vocal music was the St. Augustine's Mens Choir, under the direction of Amy Noykos. Vocal soloist was Freddie Purdy, age 13, and piano soloist was his sister Paige, age 9, both cousins of the groom.

A memorial candle was lit at Mary's altar, in remembrance of the deceased grandparents of the couple. Hot pink stargazer lilies with silver bows decorated the pews. Five large, white urns filled with flowers of varying shades of pink were placed on the alter steps.

Escorted down the aisle by her parents, the bride wore a satin A-line gown with split-front, beaded lace and lace-up back. The chapel train was pool blue with beaded lace. The fingertip veil was edged in pool blue satin. Her regal-style tiara was encrusted with Swarovski crystals with pearl jewelry completing her ensemble. She carried a cascading bouquet of pink stargazer lilies, crystal-accented hot pink roses and white calla lilies.

The matron of honor was April Correl, cousin of the bride. Bridesmaids were Dawn Drewel, cousin of the bride; Mindy Blom, sister of the groom; and Stephanie Dennis, Lauren Hahn and Katie Kozielc, friends of the bride. The attendants wore pool blue, satin empire ball gowns with chiffon halter and ruched sash.

The flower girl was three-year-old Erin Correl, cousin of the bride. She wore a white organza with pool blue organza sash. She carried a white sand pail filled with blue rose petals.

The best man was John Maltinsky, brother of the groom. The groomsmen were Christopher Kennedy, twin brother of the bride; Scott Monnin, cousin of the groom; and Nathan Helmstetter, Steve Kleinhenz and Tim Stratton, friends of the groom. The groom wore a black pin-stripe tuxedo, silver vest and tie and black and white patent leather wingtip shoes. He wore a white calla lily on his lapel. His groomsmen wore matching tuxedos with pool blue vests and ties and hot pink boutonnieres.

The ring bearer was four-year-old Ray Purdy, god-son of the groom. He sported a solid black tuxedo with a silver vest and tie and black patent leather shoes. He wore a hot pink rose on his lapel. He carried a white satin pillow adorned with sea shells.

Lectors were Alice Britweg, aunt of the bride; Christine Purdy, godmother of the groom; and Ryan Murphy, friend of the bride. In the offertory procession were Christine Purdy, Nathan Maltinsky, godfather of the groom, and Gail Zangerle, godmother of the bride. Eucharistic ministers were Anita Uetrecht, aunt of the groom; Audrey Gutman, cousin of the groom; and Julie Hagelberger, friend

The mother of the bride wore a champagne metallic chiffon floor length gown with three-quarter sleeve bolero jacket. The ruched mock two piece dress had light beaded detail at the surplice neckline. The mother of the groom wore black chiffon pants and a blue and black metallic shell with matching jacket. Both mothers wore a wrist corsage of hot pink roses.

Dinner and dancing followed at Shelby Oaks Golf Club in Sidney. The hall was decorated in a beach theme with fish in glass spheres mounted onto sand-filled pillars. Hot pink gravel and sea shells added color and interest. Dozens of candles and pool blue accent stones were arranged on the tables. The card box was a shell encrusted sand castle.

The bride is the granddaughter of Marion Kennedy. The new Mrs. Maltinsky is employed at Ortho Advantage in Centerville and works per diem at Green Memorial Hospital.

The bridegroom is the grandson of Gene and Janice Oliver of Versailles and Paul R. Maltinsky of Minster. He is a fleet technician for Penske Truck Leasing in Hamilton.

Following their honeymoon in Italy, the couple will return to their home in Beaver Creek. The newlyweds met via the internet
